Women's Clubs Follow the Flag. rom the Philadelphia Telegraph. The Fortnightly Club, of Manila, which was organized in 1903 by eight American romen, proves that women's clubs folow the American Flag. It has done nuch to brighten the lives of the women whose loyalty to their husbands has taken them to the far East. It has among its honorary members Mrs, William H. Taft, wife of the President of the United States, and Mrs. Luke E. Wright, wife of the second American governor general of the Philippine Islands, both of whom at one time were active in the work of the organization. The club spent much time in study and ectures. It made a specialty of studying the schools, monasteries, and many other parts of Manila. It studied the istory of China, Japan, and other hings connected with life in the Orient. n addition, many Americans visiting the far East were called on to give short ectures to the women and tell something about the happenings in the home States. One of the social features of the lub was the "ristaffie," or midday lunch-Java. At another time the club took part in the pageantry parade in Manila.
